

Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Ministry of Human Rights calls on the honorable citizens to provide any information they have on the missing people during the war in Kuwait and their Whereabouts.

The Iraqi government exerted serious efforts to find those missing or their remains. It succeeded in finding 236 missing so far; 373 remain. The accomplishment of this task is part of our international obligations, providing information about them is a service to our dear country to eliminate the crimes committed by the former regime and maintain Iraq's reputation and its place in the international community.
